

FATE OF WALTER DIEHL NOW RESTS WITH JURY

Prisoner Accused of Participating in Etherington Lynching Will Soon
Know His Fate

PROSECUTOR DEMANDS NO LESS THAN MURDER

In First Degree, But Said That This Verdict With Recommendation of Mercy Would Satisfy the State, Thus Saving Defendant's Life--- Mother and Wife in Tears as Jury Files Out.

Judge Edward Mansfield concluded his charge to the jury in the Diehl murder case at 1:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and immediately afterward the jury retired for deliberation. The court room was crowded during the reading of the charge.

Prosecutor Phil B. Smythe, Attorneys W. H. Miller and Seth L. McMillan, counsel for the state, said:

"It was a very fair, able and impartial charge, which should illuminate the deliberations of the jury from a legal standpoint, and we are entirely satisfied with the state's case as submitted to the jury."

Attorneys S. L. James and Lincoln C. Russell, for the defense, said: "We have done our best for the defendant and believe that we have impressed upon the jurors' minds that Diehl is not guilty of the crime of murder. Judge Mansfield's charge was entirely impartial and was an able exposition of the law in the case."

As soon as the jury left their seats for the witness room, Diehl's aged mother burst into tears, as well as the defendant's wife. He tried to comfort them as they wept upon his shoulder, and after a while they became more composed and the family sat in silence as the minutes ticked away.

The penalty for murder in the first degree, with a recommendation for mercy, which seemed to be entirely satisfactory to Prosecuting Attorney Phil B. Smythe, as announced in his argument is imprisonment for life, without hope of pardon or parole, except upon absolute proof of innocence.

The fate of Walter Diehl, who has been on trial for his life for over a week, was put in the hands of the twelve men who were chosen for this important service, after a careful selection from two venues of names, on Wednesday.

The trial was gone through without any tedious delay, consistent with care of the rights and privileges of both state and defendant. The case made out by the state against Diehl was a very strong one and had been prepared with great care, and painstaking by Prosecutor Smythe, assisted by Attorney W. H. Miller of the attorney general's office, who has been connected with these cases since they were brought to the attention of the grand jury over a year ago. The chain of evidence was consequently and was forged link by link, until it appeared to many that it could not be broken, and would hold Diehl to answer for the very highest crime.

No defendant before in the history of Lack county jurisprudence has been more ably and brilliantly defended against such great odds. Diehl had for his counsel two of the best criminal lawyers at the bar, S. L. James and Lincoln C. Russell. Those two men were indefatigable in attempting to combat the evidence adduced by the state, and by their skill in this line and the power of two forceful and eloquent arguments to the jury brought forth encomiums from all who heard them, regardless of where their sympathies lay.

The argument's began Tuesday afternoon with the opening of state's case by Mr. Miller, and Mr. Russell spoke until the time for evening adjournment.

The attendance during the arguments was much larger than it has been heretofore and on Wednesday morning when Mr. James began his closing argument for the defense every available space in the court room was occupied, a number of women being in the audience, and all remained until Prosecutor Smythe closed, evincing the most powerful interest in what was said.

Diehl's family was well represented, sitting on either side of him behind his counsel, on Wednesday morning. Besides his wife and aged mother who have been with him at every session, there were present two brothers and a sister.

During Mr. James' argument for the defendant, they sat transfixed with interest, eagerly hanging upon every word as it fell from the lips of the advocate. At times women held handkerchiefs to their eyes, and it was apparent that they were silently weeping, but during the eloquent and impressive peroration, their frames shook with sobs, and the wife raves raised her eyes during the appeal of Prosecutor Smythe for the conviction of her husband, keeping him shaded by her hand, and at times using her handkerchief.

Diehl himself appeared more composed than any member of his family and during the arguments for and against him listened intently to every word, his chair most of the time slightly tilted backward, but his countenance never changed.

The argument of Attorney S. L. James was begun about 8:30 o'clock and continued for nearly an hour and a half, during which he devoted much of his time to discrediting some of the state's witnesses, calling up alleged inconsistencies. He also scored the testimony given by Joshua Hull, Mrs. Mattie Smith and her daughter, Mrs. Shaw, as well as that given by B. & O. detectives, Mercer and Andrews. He made something of the fact that the state had not called John Boyne to corroborate the

CHARGED WITH ABDUCTION OF YOUNG GIRL

Gallion, O., Oct. 25.—Marion Myers, a Morrow county farmer, has sworn out a warrant against Ray Baker and Charles Moore, charging them with abducting his 14-year-old daughter, Murnie Myers. Baker and Moore often visited the girl against his objection, says Myers, who claims that a week ago the two men took the girl away with them in a buggy, drove to Centerville, where they left the rig and have not been heard from since.

CHILD'S BODY ALMOST BURNED TO CRISP AFTER CLOTHING CATCHES FIRE

Edna Beoney, the 3-year-old daughter of Ernest W. Beoney, a carpenter on Eastern avenue, was badly burned Monday morning when her dress caught fire while playing about a gas range.

Mrs. Beoney had been washing and left the little one alone for a few minutes while she went into the yard to place the clothes on the line. She had been absent from the house but a short time when she heard the child scream, and going into the house found the tiny tot a mass of flames. Mrs. Williams, a neighbor, who heard the cries of the child, ran into the house with Mrs. Beoney, and, seizing a rug, wrapped the burning child in it and extinguished the flames, but not before the little body had been nearly burned to a crisp.

The left side was burned the most seriously and but little hope is felt for the child's recovery. The child has never been conscious since the accident occurred and it is hardly probable that she will ever come out of the state of coma.

SLASHED THROAT OF PHYSICIAN

Dr. Helen Knabe Found Dead With Head Almost Severed From Body

NO TRACE OF MURDERER

Victim Clad in Night Clothes---
Evidence of Struggle in Bloody Bedroom.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 25.—Governor Marshall today took steps which may result in the state of Indiana offering a reward for the apprehension of the murderer of Dr. Helene Knabe. With definite assertions by both the police and the coroner that there remains but little doubt that the woman physician was murdered and did not commit suicide the governor told his secretary to confer with the authorities with regard to the advisability of offering a reward for the murderer.

Indianapolis Ind., Oct. 25.—Completely baffled in their efforts to find a clue in the death mystery of Dr. Helene Knabe, 35, one of the best known woman physicians in the middle west, the Indianapolis police today worked on the theory of revenge as the only possible solution of the mystery.

Coroner Durham after a final and complete examination of the body stated positively today that the dead woman showed no evidence of a criminal assault. None of the woman's jewels or valuables have been found missing according to the police.

The authorities are today investigating the history of the dead woman in an effort to ascertain if she has had any enemies or love affairs. As far as they have been able to learn no men have been calling on the woman. That it was a powerfully built man who committed the murder was evidenced by the fact that the head was almost severed from the body.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 25.—With her head almost severed from her body, Dr. Helene Knabe, well known practicing physician and former State bacteriologist, was found in her apartments here yesterday by Katie McPherson, her office girl.

Whoever committed the murder vanished without leaving any trace of his identity, and the police face a mystery that rivals the most lurid fiction.

A negro, Jefferson Haynes, janitor at the apartments, was arrested yesterday afternoon but was released last night when the police were convinced that he knew nothing of the murder.

Coroner Durham, who held an autopsy said that no attack had been made on the woman.

Dr. Knabe lived alone in her apartments. She had a bedroom adjoining her offices. When Miss McPherson entered the room the body lay stretched across the bed. The head was thrown back and across the throat was a gaping wound.

The right arm was doubled up with the hand close to the chin, indicating that Dr. Knabe was trying to ward off the fatal blow. The left arm was outstretched. The body was partially covered with blood.

On the bosom there were bloody imprints. On the left knee there was a big blood stain indicating that the murderer grabbed the woman in the struggle. On the left arm there was a small cut, which may have been inflicted while the woman was fighting for her life. The position in which the body lay led the police to believe that an attack was the purpose of the slayer. The attitude was one of helplessness after a struggle. The woman was clad in a nightgown, which was rolled up beneath her armpits.

The arms of the woman were covered with blood, showing that her assailant may have held her with his hands crimson stained. The bed clothing was soaked with blood and there were blood stains beneath the bed.

It was evident that a strong and sinewy hand wielded the knife or whatever weapon was used. The woman's head must have been pushed back so that the neck was strained, for the knife cut mercilessly through the flesh and into the cartilage of the spine.

That she made no outcry that would have aroused other residents of the apartments was due probably to the fact that the windpipe must have been severed half a second after the knife struck the flesh. It was beyond the power of the woman to shriek or groan even if the murderer had not been choking her, as she

NEW YORK WINS OUT IN THE TENTH INNING

Clubs.	R. H. E.
NEW YORK	0 0 0 0 0 1 0 2 1—4 10 2
PHILADELPHIA	0 0 3 0 0 0 0 0 0—3 7 1

New York, October 25.—In a sensational ninth and tenth inning rally New York took the fifth game of the world's series at the Polo Grounds this afternoon. Marquard was relieved early in the game, and Ames took his place. Ames was also relieved in the eighth, Crandall finishing the game.

Two doubles and a single in the ninth inning tied the score. Bunched hits in the tenth gave New York the winning run.

Long before J. Franklin Baker and the other young men who form Connie Mack's baseball team had left their town hotels, the Giants were out on the field, practicing several little tricks that go to make up the national game. Manager McGraw was very much on the job, giving advice and orders, until the much-discussed "last ditch" into which the Giants have been shoved, was all filled. The practice work of the Giants, however, was a bit ragged. It was easily evident that the "last ditch stuff" made no appeal to the New York fans, who seem to have lost interest in the series, and when play started there were plenty of vacant seats.

The umpires were: Klein behind the bat and Deacon on the bases.

First Inning.
Athletics. Marquard had great speed, but was inclined to be unsteady, and Lord had three balls and two strikes on him when he drove a single liner to left, on which Devore made a shoestring catch. Oldring went out on a grounder, Doyle to Merkle. Oldring broke his bat in smashing the ball. Marquard seemed slightly nervous and Meyers went down and patted him on the back. Collins was out on an easy fly to Snodgrass. No runs, no hits, no errors.

New York. Devore hit the first ball pitched, to Barry, who got his man at first. Doyle hit a foul which Baker captured. Snodgrass went out by the Baker-Davis route. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Second Inning.

Athletics. Baker got a big hand when he came to the plate. There was another cheer when Marquard fanned Baker. Murphy singled sharply to left. Marquard almost pitched Murphy out first by a snap throw. The crowd roared. Umpire Duncanson when he called Murphy safe. Davis waited Marquard out and then fanned. Murphy tried to steal second.

MORE CITIES CAPTURED BY REVOLUTIONISTS

Shanghai, China, Oct. 25.—Assassination of the general commanding the Imperial garrison at Canton was accomplished today by revolutionists. Several bombs were thrown, killing him and several of his escorts. Canton is on the verge of joining the rebellion. Troops there cannot be relied upon and the governor has telephoned to Peking advising the government to yield.

The town of Pechen Chow, an important strategic point, and the ancient capital of China, fell into the hands of the rebels today. The capture of this place marks the spread of the rebellion northward to Peking.

From Peking itself comes the word that imperial court has completed all arrangements for flight at a moment's notice. Canton and Nankin are momentarily expected to surrender. There is less than six hundred dollars in the government treasury.

The rebels capture of Tchen Chow, cuts the Imperial troops in the vicinity of Hankow and Wu Cheng off from communication with Peking. Convinced that Wu Hu and Nankin will fall within a few hours Manchou officials from both cities are fleeing here to escape massacre.

INDICTED FOR THE DEATH OF BERT OFFORD

Zanesville, Oct. 25.—Fred Grieser was arrested here yesterday on a charge of manslaughter, he having been indicted by the Muskingum county grand jury for being responsible for the death of Bert Offord, who was killed while picking up coal along the B. and O. tracks near Camp Lucky along the Licking river in September.

Offord was a member of a camping party and his dead body was found by a fisherman soon after he was shot. Grieser in company with Carl Heibel was hunting in the vicinity and it is alleged that a shot fired by him caused Offord's death. It is not charged that he intentionally shot Offord but the fact that he refused to confess to the killing is said to make it a criminal act. He gave bond for $1,000 and has retained two attorneys to defend him.

The victim, Bert Offord, was at one time a crack amateur ball player and several years ago played with Zanesville against the Old Idlewild team of Newark. He also played several times as a member of the Newark team. He was a pitcher of ability at that time.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 25.—Charles Fackchild, aged 62, was so overjoyed when he was released from police custody here on a technical charge that he died of heart disease.

FOUR NEW VOLCANOES.
Valdez, Alaska, Oct. 25.—Prospectors returning from Port Wells report that four new volcanoes are belching masses of black smoke on the Kenai Peninsula.

MYSTERY DEEPENS IN LINNELL CASE

Boston, Mass., Oct. 25.—A second autopsy was made today on the body of Avis Linnell. At the same time the mystery surrounding her death was deepened when a search of the girl's bathrobe failed to disclose any clues to the cause of death. The first autopsy was performed when the body was found and the second made at midnight last night when the coffin was brought back from the grave at Hyannis and the bathrobe searched. What today's autopsy will reveal is not yet known. All the internal organs were removed and will be sent to the laboratory at Harvard for analysis.

IMPORT DYNAMITE DEALERS TO IDENTIFY M'NAMARAS

Los Angeles, Oct. 25.—It is becoming more and more certain as the wearisome task of impanelling a jury to try James B. McNamara continues that it is merely the prelude of an attempt on the part of the Burns detective agency to prove the existence of an inner circle within the American Federation of Labor, which contemplates and finances acts of violence.

This was made certain at times when Attorney Darrow for the defense in examining witnesses demanded whether they considered labor leaders a lawless element who advocated violence in bringing about acquiescence to their demands by employers. The real reason for this became apparent today when it was learned that District Attorney Frederick L. studying the transcript of the grand jury proceedings at Indianapolis. It is known that the state has already brought a dozen dynamite dealers here from Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and Indiana, and had them secretly identify the McNamaras as the men who are alleged to have purchased large quantities of the explosive.

SURELY BREAKS UP A BAD COLD IN A FEW HOURS

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound, taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the Grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach, limbs or any part of the body.

It promptly relieves the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects, as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

Comic Town.
When Samuel G. Blythe, the writer, was editing a newspaper in New York state a green reporter one night turned in a long and thrilling story regarding the rough treatment handed out to John Smith, a visitor to the town. The story related that Mr. Smith, wearing a high silk hat, had ventured down to the docks after nightfall and a silk hat being unusual and provocative of antagonisms in that section Mr. Smith had emerged from among the dock hands without the hat. Nevertheless he carried out of the melee so many wounds, cuts and bruises that he had to be sent to the hospital. The article in its original form was too long and not in keeping with the style of the paper. Accordingly Blythe started to rewrite it. This is the form in which it appeared in the paper the next morning: "John Smith, wearing a high silk hat, went down to the docks last night—Emergency hospital."—Popular Magazine.

Wagner's Last Words.
There have been so many and conflicting stories published as to the last words of the late Richard Wagner that the chapter devoted to this point in Gluck's biography of the composer will be read with interest. The master was not really sick at the time, but tired out from the work and worry over the "Parsifal" rehearsals. On the morning of Feb. 13 he said to his valet, "I must be careful today." After breakfast he went to his study as usual and worked on an essay on "The Feminine in the Human." He asked to be excused at the noon meal, and the family and an intimate friend were enjoying it when a woman servant rushed in and said that the great man was ill. He was placed on a cot in his study, and while removing some of his clothes a watch which his wife had given to him fell to the floor. He gasped, "My watch!" And these were the last words he uttered.

Birds and Fishes and Glass.
A correspondent recently reported what he described as the "curious freak" of a blackbird dying against a pane window many times at the same spot continuously. Such an incident is not uncommon. Birds have been known to fight for hours at a time, day after day, with their own image reflected in a pane of glass, pecking and duffering against the pane and quite exhausting themselves in their fury to demolish the supposed rival. It is another instance of how the arts of our civilization corrupt and confuse the birds. It is the same with fishes. Darwin tells a story of a pike in an aquarium separated by plate glass from fish which were its proper food. In trying to get at the fish the pike would often dash with such violence against the glass as to be completely stunned. It did this for more than three months before it learned caution. Then when the glass was removed the pike would not attack those particular fish, but would devour others freshly introduced. It did not at all understand the situation, but associated the punishment it had received not with the glass, but with a particular kind of fish.

Drive Away Germs with Gold Dust
The modern surgeon carefully cleanses hands and instruments before and after every operation; he realizes the danger both to himself and his patient of any clinging germs.

Germs thrive and multiply wherever they can find a lodging place in grease and dirt, and where things are scrupulously clean they find it hard to live.

The easiest and surest way to keep things clean lies in the use of Gold Dust washing powder. Gold Dust goes deep and cleans and routes out every germ and hidden impurity. It is the sanitary cleanser.

BABY DROWNED IN MOTHER FOUND WATER TROUGH

Liberty Center, Oct. 25.—[Paul Warner, aged 2, played innocently near the watering trough on the farm of his father, Walter Warner, three miles west of here. He fell in and twenty minutes later his mother found his little body in the water. Frantically she tried to call her husband from the fields by ringing an alarm with the dinner bell, but the rope broke. Then she summoned aid by telephone, but the boy could not be resuscitated.

In fighting the plague in India where infected villages are sometimes burned. In the towns evacuation of dwellings and their disinfection by sunlight and air, plus disinfectants, are practically all that can be done.

DOCTORS PRESCRIBED MORPHINE.

I was taken with a terrible pain in my right kidney and right side, and had to commence doctoring, but got only temporary relief by the use of morphine. This pain came often, and worse. I tried everything and six doctors but still grew worse. Some doctors called it neuralgia, others said I had colic. The pain was so severe that I could hardly breathe. It would run from my right kidney down to my bladder with such excruciating pains that it drew me almost double. I would keep my bed for days, and the terrible suffering I passed through I cannot express.

After suffering worse than death for one year, and spending lots of money I went as a last resort to a drug store and purchased a bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. I kept using it until I had taken 14 bottles, and to my surprise I passed 12 gravel stones, the size of small soup beans. Anyone doubting the above statement may enclose stamp for reply.

No runs, one hit, no errors.
New York: Murray struck out. Merkle was another strike out victim. Herzog singled between Barry and Baker after Coombs had two strikes on him. Herzog stole second. It was the second base stolen by the Giants in the series. Fletcher fanned. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Third Inning.
Athletics: Oldring made a home run with two on. Barry went out on a grounder to Herzog, whose throw beat the runner several feet. Lap singled over second. Meyers had Lapp caught off first, but Merkle dropped the ball. It was not an error for Merkle. Coombs hit a grounder to Herzog, who threw to Doyle, but the Giant second baseman dropped the ball in his eagerness to make a double play. With a man on first and second, Meyers went down and talked to Marquard. Lord sent up a high one to Doyle. Lapp, Coombs and Oldring scored on Oldring's home run drive into the left field stand. Oldring's smash instead of Marquard and Collins stroled to first on four wide ones. Collins stole second; Meyers' throw was wild. McGraw sent Ames out to warm up. Baker was out on a grounder to Merkle, unassisted. Three runs, two hits, one error.

Fourth Inning.
Athletics: Ames went into the box for the Giants. The crowd howled when Ames curved the first one over for a strike. Murphy sent up a high foul, which landed in Meyers' mitt. Davis was out when Merkle took his grounder and ran to first. Ames used a big drop and a wide out-curve in his service. A Barry went out, Fletcher to Merkle. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fifth Inning.
Athletics: Ames went into the box for the Giants. The crowd howled when Ames curved the first one over for a strike. Murphy sent up a high foul, which landed in Meyers' mitt. Davis was out when Merkle took his grounder and ran to first. Ames used a big drop and a wide out-curve in his service. A Barry went out, Fletcher to Merkle. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Sixth Inning.
Athletics: Collins fouled out to Merkle on an attempted bunt. The outfielders moved back when Baker came to bat. Baker went out, Doyle to Merkle on a close play. Murphy struck out on Ames' drop curve. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning.
Athletics: Devore was out when Collins scooped his grounder and shot it to first. Doyle sent a single to right just out of Collins' reach. Snodgrass put up a high one, which Snodgrass took. Doyle stole second. Murray flied to Lord. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Eighth Inning.
Athletics: Devore was out on a grounder to Fletcher, who made a pretty play on the ball and had the runner at first by several feet. Barry got a Texas leaguer to right and stole second, making a beautiful fall-away slide. Lapp fanned. Coombs popped up to Fletcher. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Ninth Inning.
Athletics: Crandall is now in the box for the Giants. Lord flied out to Snodgrass. Oldring singled through short. Collins flied out to Devore. On a wild pitch Oldring took second. Baker fouled out to Herzog. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Tenth Inning.
Athletics: Plank went into the box for the Athletics. Doyle doubled to left. Plank took Snodgrass' attempted sacrifice and threw to third base but failed to catch Doyle. Murray flied to Murphy. Snodgrass was now on first and Doyle on third with only one out. Doyle scored on Merkle's sacrifice fly to Murphy. One run, one hit, no errors.

Private Coleridge.
In his young days the poet Coleridge had a little love affair which ended in disaster, for the lady refused him. In despair he enlisted in a cavalry regiment which he hoped would be ordered on foreign service. For family reasons he dropped his correct name, but from a feeling of sentiment retained the initials, so Samuel Taylor Coleridge became Private Sigs Tompkins Camberbatch. The regiment did not leave the country, and it was not long before his soul wearied of barracks life and his utter absence of romance. His military life ended in a curious fashion. One day while Coleridge was doing a weary sentry go two officers strolled past. One of them made use of a Greek quotation which the other corrected. The first insisted on his correctness, while the other was just as positive he was wrong. While they disputed the sentry suddenly presented arms and respectfully informed them that they were both in error. He gave the exact quotation, name of the author and other circumstances. This incident led to an inquiry, and the poet was restored to the bosom of his family.—London Graphic.

In a Japanese Temple.
"Asakusa temple is dedicated to the goddess Kwannon, a tiny image of gold, about two and one-half inches high," writes a traveler in Japan. "At the entrance to the temple grounds on either side of the immense gate stand two large and fearful looking figures, guarding the sacred precincts. Hanging outside the wire grating are a number of sandals for their use if they wish to take a walk, and rice is sprinkled about. Each worshiper, before entering the temple, calls at a small building, and after contributing a small amount, washes his hands and rinses his mouth. In front of the main shrine is a large aperture in the floor, covered with lattice-work, into which the worshiper casts his gift. After clapping his hands to awaken or attract the attention of the god, he kneels, but his prayer is only brief. While there is one chief shrine there are many others under the same roof. One shrine especially attracted my attention: it was made of wood, and quite disfigured and worn through the constant rubbing of hands on the spot corresponding to the afflicted portions of the sufferers' bodies."—Chicago News.

Tower of Hercules.
Travelers may still see on the coast of the English channel at Dover the ruins of a Roman lighthouse that was built at the time of the Roman conquest of Britain. Another ancient lighthouse, built less than a century after the tower at Dover, is still serving its original purpose. It was partly rebuilt and some alterations were made in it, but in the main it is the same old structure that guided the Roman galleys as they skirted the coasts of the bay of Biscay, making their way to the Roman port of Brigantium. This is the modern harbor of La Coruna, and the lighthouse is the most ancient thing about it. The Romans called it tower of Hercules, and the moderns have perpetuated the name. The exact date of its erection is not known, but inscriptions and other evidence show that it was built in the time of Trajan, between 95 and 117 A. D.—Exchange.

TO GET RID OF RHEUMATISM
If we suffer with Rheumatism and desire to get rid of it we must make up our minds to subject our systems to the proper course of treatment for a while. The only way to cure oneself of Rheumatism is to remove the cause—expel the irritating uric acid from the blood; every other method of treatment has proved a failure. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. This medicine goes down into the circulation and expels every particle of the sour, inflammatory uric acid which is the one great cause of the disease. The cure can be greatly hastened by a little care and self denial by the patient. In the first place do not let anything interfere to prevent your taking S. S. S. regularly and according to directions; be guarded in your eating, because an attack of indigestion will always aggravate the symptoms of Rheumatism. Do not expose yourself to damp and inclement weather any more than is necessary. When S. S. S. has had time to rid the blood of the uric acid and strengthen the system, then these little restrictions can be left off. This simple course has cured many thousands of cases of Rheumatism. ### His Great Generosity.

"We are getting up a subscription," began the lady who was carrying around the paper. Her voice trembled as she spoke, for the person she was now bracing happened to be the richest fellow in the community. She hoped against hope that she would get something out of him.

"You are getting up a subscription?" echoed the millionaire, with a sweet smile. "I'm sure you'll be very successful. And what can I do?"

"Would you—could you?"—she nearly fainted at her assurance—"would you please put your name down on this paper for a hundred dollars?"

There it was done. He wouldn't have missed a thousand, but she was pretty courageous to ask for as much as she did. His gentle smile reassured her.

"Will I put my name down for a hundred dollars?" said he. "Why, my dear young lady, I don't charge that amount for the use of my name when charity is the cause. I will put my name down, of course, but not for a hundred dollars. I won't charge you a cent for it. It is a slight service."

SLUGGISH BOWELS CAUSE HEADACHE, DIZZINESS AND SICK, SOUR STOMACH

No odds how bad your liver, stomach or bowels; how much your head aches how miserable and uncomfortable you are from constipation, indigestion, biliousness and sluggish intestines—you always get the desired results with Cascarets.

Don't let your stomach, liver and bowels make you miserable another moment; put an end to the headache, biliousness, dizziness, nervousness, sick, sour, gassy stomach, backache and all other distress; cleanse your inside organs of all the poison and effete matter which is producing the misery.

Take a Cascaret now; don't wait until bedtime. In all the world there is no remedy like this. A 10-cent box means health, happiness and a clear head for months. No more days of gloom and distress if you will take a Cascaret now and then. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle, cleansing, too.

WOMAN'S HAT ROLLED UNDER MOVING CAR

Spectators Expected to See Beautiful Creation Ground to Pieces, But Were Disappointed.

One Newark woman received an awful shock on Fourth street Wednesday morning when she saw her millinery creation disappear under the wheels of a street car. Her fright was all for naught however as the bunch of felt and feathers was rescued from the trucks absolutely unharmed except for a little dust.

The hat was one of those new fangled affairs, sort of shapeless. The kind that you grasp by the rim like a school boy and sock down over a built-up coiffure. It is not anchored with an 18-inch hat pin.

This hat wouldn't stay socked. A naughty gust of wind lifted the creation from the head of its wearer and carried it directly into the path of an on-coming street car.

It rolled beneath the trucks and the motorman, with a full realization of the terrible tragedy—he'd probably just paid for his own wife's hat—made a desperate effort to stop the demon of destruction. He threw on the brakes, sanded the rails and reversed his motor but the car rolled on and the hat was lost to sight. Mrs. —, there, you almost got the lady's name—anyway she screamed and wrung her hands in anguish as the car came to a stop and her hat was nowhere to be seen. "Call the wrecking crew and lift the car off the hat," breathlessly suggested a husband who had been touched by his spouse yesterday for the price of a hat.

"Better get the street sweeper to gather up the remains," was the suggestion of the cynical bachelor who knew not the price of a woman's hat.

The motorman left the vestibule and crawled under his car, poked around the gear box, brake rod, sand tank, etc., and finally emerged with his beautiful uniform of brass-trimmed blue cruelly dust begrimed—but he had the hat.

An obliging man in the crowd dusted the hat with his handkerchief—it was a clean one this morning too—and passed it to its owner.

She socked it down on her head and went blithely on her way.

CALUMNY.

Calumny is the very worst of all evils. In it there are two who commit injustice and one who is injured, for he who calumniates another acts unjustly by accusing one who is not present, and he acts unjustly who is persuaded before he has learned the exact truth, and he that is absent when the charge is made is thus doubly injured, being calumniated by the one and by the other deemed to be base.—Herodotus.

RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS FIND QUICK RELIEF By the use of SWANSON'S "5-Drops"

Mrs. B. E. Keller, Octavia, Neb., writes: "At the age of 41, I was such a sufferer with rheumatism that I was compelled to walk with crutches. I was advised to try '5-Drops.' I at once sent to your office and secured a sample bottle of the remedy and used it with good results. I then procured a supply of it and continued its use. I am cured and as well on my feet as ever."

"5-Drops" gives immediate relief. It stops the aches and pains, relieves swollen joints and muscles—acts almost like magic. Destroys the excess uric acid and its cause. Unequaled for all forms of rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, gout, neuralgia, catarrh and asthma. No other remedy like it. "5-Drops" is a tonic. Nothing else ever discovered will afford such early relief or effect a cure so quickly. In rheumatism the purveyor of pain is uric acid and it is this which "5-Drops" throws and shoots from the system and arrested circulation. "5-Drops" hastens circulation, quiets the nerves and the pain stops.

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Gout, Neuralgia, Catarrh and Asthma

Miss M. D. Collins, Millerville, Ala., writes: "I was taken with Asthma and could hardly breathe. I sent for a sample bottle of '5-Drops' and it did me good from the very first. I then purchased your large size bottle and since using it feel like a new woman. I think it is the best medicine in the world."

J. H. Garrett, Carrollton, Ga., writes: "I find your '5-Drops' to be all you claim for it. I am taking for Catarrh; it is the only medicine I have ever tried that has done me any good."

Sold by Druggists. One Dollar per bottle, or sent prepaid upon receipt of price if not obtainable in your locality.

WEDDINGS

DAERR—HENTHORNE.

One of the prettiest weddings to mark the early fall season was that of Miss Charlotte Irene Henthorne and Mr. Louis A. Daerr, which took place at high noon Wednesday in the Trinity Episcopal church.

The church never presented a prettier appearance than it did Wednesday with its great banks of ferns and palms about the altar and amidst this foliage the great clustering heads of the beautiful white chrysanthemum.

This color scheme of white and green was used throughout the entire decorations. The brides were Edward Nehls and Frank Douce and at the appointed hour the organist, Mr. Frank Reynolds took up the wedding march.

Miss Henthorne's maid of honor was Miss Florence Roedel of Zanesville. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white chiffon over white messaline and her hat was of white velvet and messaline. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor wore a chiffon dress of white over a soft white silk and her gown was trimmed in pink and gold fringe. Her hat harmonized with the gown. Mr. Daerr's best man was Mr. Walter Davis. Rev. L. P. Franklin read the beautiful Episcopal ring service and following this Mr. Will Reynolds sang, "Oh Promise Me."

Following the church ceremony a luncheon was given at the bride's home to about forty guests. The home decorations were again of green and white and the centerpiece of the bride's table was the wedding cake. Chrysanthemums were the chosen flower and the dainty place cards were the tiny wedding bells. Seated at the guests' table were Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Daerr, Mr. and Mrs. Henthorne, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Daerr, Misses Florence Roedel, Goldie Daly, Eleanor Davis, Lulu Starr, Messrs. Walter Davis, Harry Henthorne, Frank Douce and Edward Nehls.

The wedding day marked the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Daerr, parents of the groom. Following the luncheon Miss Place sang a pretty solo number.

Mr. and Mrs. Daerr left Wednesday afternoon for their home in Columbus where they will be at home to their friends in Third avenue.

Mrs. Daerr is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Henthorne of Leroy street, and is a graduate of the Newark high school. She was a contingent teacher in the Newark schools for a short time.

Mr. Daerr is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Daerr of Buena Vista street and is a draughtsman with the Jeffrey company in Columbus. He is a graduate of Ohio State University.

PALMER-PARSON.

In a very becoming traveling suit, Miss Lelia Parson became the bride of Fred W. Palmer at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Rev. Fr. Chas. Watters officiating the ring ceremony. Mrs. Stella Brannon of Mill Street. Her husband is the son of Mr. R. L. Palmer of Malden Ave. They were attended by Miss Gertrude McNeerney and Mr. Edward Duffey. Both carry with them the best wishes of their many friends for a long and happy wedded life. After a short trip east they will be at home at 57 Mill street.

JUST READY TO DROP

When you are "just ready to drop," when you feel so weak that you can hardly drag yourself about—and because you have not slept well, you get up as tired-out next morning as when you went to bed, then you need help right away.

Miss Lea Dumas writes from Malone, N. Y., saying, "I was in a badly run-down condition for several weeks but two bottles of Vinol put me on my feet again and made me strong and well. Vinol has done me more good than all the other medicine I ever took."

If the carswoman, baggard men and women; the pale, sickly children and feeble old folks around here would follow Miss Dumas' example, they, too, would soon be able to say that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, had built them up and made them strong.

It is a wonderfully strengthening and invigorating body-builder, and we sell it under an iron-clad guarantee of satisfaction. You get your money back if Vinol does not help you. Frank D Hall, druggist, Newark, O.

ALONZO P. TAYLOR

Alonzo P. Taylor, "Lonny," as he is known by all his friends, is a candidate for re-election to the office of City Treasurer. He is now serving his second term as such officer, and has proven such an invaluable officer
 that it would be hard to forgo his services. Being a skilled book-keeper and thoroughly familiar with the financial department of the city, he is fully capable to look after the best

ALONZO P. TAYLOR.
 interests of the city in that line, and
 being quite an enthusiast he is always ready to do the right thing and work for the highest and most attainable good. During the time he has filled the office of city treasurer, he has performed the duties of the office not only with credit to himself but also to the party with which he has
 for so long a time been identified.
 Painsstaking and careful his books are a model of neatness and he can always be relied upon absolutely on all questions pertaining to the various city funds. He is an ideal candidate and one whom it will be a pleasure
 for any voter to support. The voter, irrespective of party, can make no mistake in voting for "Lonny" Taylor
 for treasurer of the city of Newark.

HARRY ROSSEL

In running over the Democratic ticket you will find the name of Harry Rosssel presented as a candidate for President of City Council. There is a man who is as clean as they make them and as solid as refined gold. He has previously held the position of President of the City Council and made a most excellent presiding officer. He is a hard worker and considers office a public trust. The position of President of the City Council is a most important one, requiring excellent judgment and a good knowledge of parliamentary law. These attributes are possessed by Mr. Rosssel in a high degree. As an indication of Mr. Rosssel's popularity it is only necessary to state that when he was a candidate for the office on a previous occasion he was elected by a large majority. His fellow citizens have ever found him a man of sterling quality and integrity. He is honest, capable and alive to the public welfare and would know nothing but the city's good. He will make a most excellent presiding officer of the City Council, having a philosophic turn of mind and being a student of the city's needs, he is fully qualified to fill the important office to the satisfaction of all the people. He is a staunch friend of labor as has been demonstrated on many occasions, and the workmen will stand by him. He not only numbers his friends in the Democratic party, but has hundreds of friends, embracing men of all parties and creeds.

CONSERVATION.

To save the forests and the coal, we meet betimes in Kansas City, and spring a good long rigmarole, and sing a soul-inspiring ditty. We talk at dinner and at lunch, on how to save the country's bacon, and then we go, the whole blundering bunch, to have a fine group picture taken. Long may our golden banners wave! Long may we wage this noble battle! The land's resources we shall save, if we but know how to do it. We'll scourge the pillagers away, and drive the Morganheims badly, even though to win the faithful fray we have to meet at Cincinnati? The talkfest is the shining sword with which we'll stop the spoiler's capers! So let's unite till crowds are bored, and read on, long and noisy papers;
 on all who don't agree with us we'll pass our caustic, savage scriptures, and after all the pleasant fuss we'll go and sit for moving pictures. We battle for eternal right, for home—be it a hall or shanty, and we shall win the sacred fight, though we must meet at Ypsilanti!

AMUSEMENTS

What the Press Agent Says

ALDITORIUM.
 One of the strongest stock companies that has ever played here in many
 a day, holds the boards at this popular play house. John A. Hummel's Associate Players, headed by Miss Dainty Dainty opened here in "The Bishop's Carriage" on Monday night, and are fast winning favor with the people of Newark. Last night "An Orphan's Prayers" was presented in a way that sent the audience away with nothing
 but praise for this sterling attraction.
 Miss Dainty is an attraction by herself, and last night the play afforded
 her an opportunity to display her versatility, as well as wear some pretty gowns. Tonight one of the feature plays of the week will be presented,
 entitled, "Three Weeks," dramatized
 from the famous book of Mrs. Ellnor Glynn. Miss Dainty's gowns in this play will be a revelation to the ladies
 as three of the gowns that she will wear are imported gowns direct from Paris. The play is one that always means capacity for the house and judging from the advance sale the house will be sold out tonight. Mr. Himmel is to be congratulated on sending us such a high class attraction.

ORPHEUM.
 As a special feature for the last three days of the week, Manager Bassett has secured Eldora, one of the world's greatest jugglers, to entertain the many patrons of the cozy Arcade theatre. Eldora is assisted by a clever comedian, their act being one of comedy from start to finish. Even their sensational heavy weight juggling is mingled with a line of comedy which promises to make it an instant hit. All their maneuvers are startling, and show astonishing skill. Last week a very pleasing act gave us a look behind the curtains and into the dressing rooms, and now Mary Carrington and company will give to you the bare stage behind the scenes. Their sketch has always proved very interesting and shows another side of stage life,
 which has not yet been seen at the Orpheum. They have a good line of comedy and the late song hits, making in all a very pleasing act. E. Q. Appleby has won for himself many pleasing epithets, but none seems to suit him better than the king of the banjo. He truly has one of the best acts of the kind now on the road as he will prove to you during his short stay here. Mr.
 Appleby is no amateur in the business and can show you many new and interesting stunts with the banjo. His music is both popular and classic, but always sweet and pleasing. Ah Long Foe is a performer of exceptional ability, and as an oriental wonder is hard to beat. All his novelties are original and have been getting for him
 hearty applause from many of the larger houses in the big time. The Or-pheumscope will have a feature film

Saving the Eyes.
 Be sure to have a bright light and shade the eyes. Let the light fall upon your work. Rest them by closing or looking at a dark object. When glasses have to be used consult a reliable oculi-
 st and let him fit your eyes.
 Wash your face and eyes mornings in cold water and a little salt. At night bathe the face and eyes in warm water with a little alum. Put a tonic for irritated eyes put a healing teaspoonful of herb tea in a four ounce vial filled with pure water and allow to dissolve. Take an eye cup, fill almost full and bathe the eyes.

POSTAL BANK TO BE OPENED HERE NOV. 4

Arrangements are being made for the opening of Newark's Postal Savings Bank which will be open to de-positors for the first time on Nov. 4.
 While the local postoffice department has not yet announced just how the bank will be placed and conducted here it is probable that the money will be deposited through the money order department as is done in a great many places.

One of the principal reasons for the savings bank is to teach the people the art of saving money and the opening of the local bank is awaited with interest.

The bank affords an opportunity to every class, which wishes to invest money of any amount no matter how small and these accounts
 may be opened and deposits made by any person of the age of 14 years or over, in his or her name, by a married woman in her own name, and free from any interference or control by her husband.

No person may open a postal savings account at any postoffice who is not a patron of that office and all accounts must be opened in person
 by the depositor or his authorized representative. After opening an account a depositor may forward subsequent deposits to post office by mail.
 When a person applies to open an account he must furnish the necessary information for the postmaster or his representative to fill out an application, which he will then be required to sign. Deposits are evidenced by postal savings certificates
 issued in fixed denominations of $1, $2, $5, $10, $20, $50, and $100. No account may be opened for less than $1 nor will fractions of a dollar be accepted for deposit. No person is permitted to deposit more than $100
 in any calendar month nor to have a total balance to his credit at one time of more than $500 exclusive of accumulated interest. Interest will be allowed on all deposits at the rate of 2 per cent per annum, computed
 on each savings certificate separately and payable annually. No interest will be paid on money which remains on deposit for a fraction of a year only.

MELVILLE CLARK'S APOLLO The Player Piano

It Touches DOWN On the Keys

The very soul of a Piano lies in its keys.

The life of a composition, its delightful harmonies, its variations of light and shade can be brought out only by a downward stroke on the piano keys. Melville Clark's Apollo is the only player piano permitted to play directly down on the keys. All other players cut out the delicately balanced keys and play upward on the sticker of the action, damaging the piano and destroying the sweetness of tone.

We could boast of the fact that the Apollo first played the whole 88-note key-board—that the Apollo alone has the metronome self-action motor—that with the Apollo you can instantly, at will, transpose a composition into any desired key for accompaniment—that with the Apollo alone you can instantly omit the melody to play accompaniments—that the Apollo is the only player piano in the world that can accent the melody correctly in all composition, but we confine ourselves here to the self-evident truth that the only correct way to play a piano is with a downward stroke on the keys.

Because the Apollo is the only player piano in the world permitted, by virtue of its United States patent, to touch down on the keys, it is the only player that plays the piano correctly. All these truths are being demonstrated daily in our sales-rooms. Come and see for yourself.

We are exclusive agents for the Apollo in this territory.
 We allow liberally for used pianos and convenient terms of payment can be arranged.

Boiled Currant Pudding. Pick apart and put through the food chopper one quarter of a pound of beef suet. Mix with it one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter of a pound of cleaned currants and one-half of a pound of flour. Stir in just enough sweet milk to moisten to a stiff dough. Turn into a greased dish or mold with a tightly fitting lid, place on a trivet in a saucepan or kettle, pour boiling water around it, cover the kettle and keep the water at a continuous boil for two hours and a half.

Sauce for Pudding—Mix together one tablespoonful of cornstarch, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and sufficient cold water to make a paste. Add to this one cupful and a half of boiling water in a sauce pan, stir until thickened and clear, then add a pinch of salt and boil for five minutes. Draw to one side, add one tablespoonful of butter cut into bits, stir until absorbed and strain into a boat.

Itching piles provoke profanity, but profanity won't cure them. Doan's Ointment cures itching, bleeding, protruding piles after years of suffering. At any drug store.

Oppelouses, La., Oct. 25.—The first of the many sensations expected in the trial of Mrs. J. P. McIne for the shooting of young Arland Garland, developed today when Acting District Attorney D. B. ## HEART AND HOME TALKS BY BARBARA BOYD

How Civilized Are You?

IT is rather interesting to read the following from the pen of George William Curtis, for when he wrote it, the woman question certainly had not the attention focussed on it that it has today. Yet years ago, this thinker and writer saw the value to civilization of giving woman her true place, and so he wrote, "The test of civilization is the estimate of woman. Among savages, she is a slave. In the Dark Ages of Christendom, she is a toy and a sentimental goddess. With increasing moral light and larger liberty and more universal justice, she begins to develop as an equal human being."

Just for the sake of finding some things out about ourselves individually, of which we may be unconscious, let us apply this test to ourselves. What is our estimate of woman; and, measured, by this test, just how civilized are we?

Most of us have passed the savage state, though here and there will be found a man whose wife or mother or sister is his slave. She has no money of her own. She must in all things do exactly as he bids, and in reality, her life is slavish. But these are the exceptions. Happily, the slave period is past.

But haven't most of us stopped at the toy and sentimental goddess stage? To many men, women are either a toy or a goddess. They are something furnished for masculine amusement when their serious work of the day is done, or else, they are wonderful creatures set on a pedestal and worshipped. This is, up to the present, the generally accepted attitude toward women. And it indicates, according to George William Curtis, that we are still in the Dark Ages.

And is he not right? For while half the human family is so regarded, does it not show that we are not doing very much thinking, and that we are indeed sitting in darkness as to what will make for progress. For man has a heavy burden when he alone must lift the human race. It takes man and woman working together equally, with an equal understanding of the work in hand, to perform this stupendous task. When he must lift woman as well, progress must inevitably be slow.

Here and there are found the few who have passed beyond the Dark Ages stage; who have that moral light, that sense of universal justice which accords woman her place as an equal human being. And when this spirit is universal, when woman comes to her rightful and helpful place in the scheme of things, then indeed will civilization flower in its perfection.

But just for the fun of the thing, if for no other reason, apply this test to yourself, and decide privately, if you do not wish to proclaim the answer publicly, just how civilized you are.

Barbara Boyd.

"I have 40 or 45 children here at the children's home constantly. When they are weak or run down I always give them Father John's Medicine to build them up. They all gain rapidly under the treatment the medicine affords. Whenever they get cold or have a cough or throat irritation Father John's Medicine gives prompt and sure relief."

Daddy's Bedtime

Flossie Cuts Off Her Curls Like a Boy

Flossie Cut Off Every Curl

"I'm afraid little Flossie isn't as fond of boys as she used to be," said daddy.

"What has Flossie been doing now?" Jack and Evelyn asked. Flossie was a little friend of theirs who lived in the city, and Flossie at times said and did very startling things.

"Flossie," said daddy, "complained because she didn't like being a girl. Flossie wants to be a boy. One evening Flossie's Uncle Fred, who is a great tease, took dinner at Flossie's house.

"Uncle Fred always makes a great deal of Flossie. 'Well, Floss, old girl, how are you?' said he as he kissed her. Flossie frowned, for she doesn't like to be called a girl. 'What scowling!' exclaimed Uncle Fred. 'Nice little girls don't scowl.' Flossie looked still crosser. 'Flossie don't like to be girl. Flossie want to be boy,' she answered. 'Dear me!' exclaimed Uncle Fred in mock surprise. 'Then let's cut off her curls and make a boy of her.' Flossie's mother hastily changed the subject. It is not safe to say things like that to Flossie.

"The next afternoon Flossie's mamma had to go out. She left Mary to take care of Flossie. Mary is the young woman who helps with the work at Flossie's house. When Mary had washed up the dishes she took her sewing and went in to the sitting room where Flossie was playing with some tin soldiers.

"Presently Mary missed her scissors. 'Flossie,' she began, but there was no Flossie there. Mary was about to start upstairs when a key clicked in the latch, and Flossie's mamma stepped in.

"Where is Flossie?" she asked.

"I'm just after looking for her, ma'am," said Mary. "It's upstairs she must be."

"So upstairs they went, and behind the door in her mamma's room was Flossie. She had taken the little hand mirror from the dresser. In her hand she held Mary's scissors, and around her on the floor were strewn her pretty curls.

"Go in be a boy now," said Flossie cheerfully, looking up at them. Flossie's mamma burst into tears.

"Oh, you naughty girl!" cried Mary.

"Then put Flossie to bed until her papa came home.

"If Flossie has cut off her hair like a little boy," said papa, "she must wear boy's clothes." So they bought her a pair of boy's rompers and a little boy's cap. Flossie thought this fine fun until she went out to play. Then all the little playmates gathered to stare and laugh at her. I don't believe she will care about being a little boy any more."

Confidence

By F. TOWNSEND SMITH

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

I never wear a ring—few men do nowadays—but if I were inclined to do so there is an incident in my life that would prevent it. I was visiting my friends Mr. and Mrs. Jim Peabody at their country place. Another guest was Miss Virginia Witherspoon, to whom I had taken a desperate fancy. One afternoon after a game of tennis I went into the bathroom on the floor where my room was located for a bath, and on the marble basin I saw a ring set with four large diamonds, which I recognized at once as one I had seen on the finger of Miss Witherspoon. I took it to my room, intending to hand it to her when we met at dinner. Jim called me to his room to tell me about some amusements he was arranging, and I left the ring on the mantel in my room. He kept me half an hour, and when I returned the ring was gone.

I was liable to be considered a thief and of having appropriated to myself the property of a girl to whom I had already given the biggest part of my heart. I was sufficiently cool to think before acting. What would be the safest course for me to pursue? While weighing the pros and cons of different courses dinner was announced.

I once knew a very successful man who said, reversing a common adage, "I never do today what I can put off till tomorrow." I was much impressed with the idea, and rather than decide hastily in this instance I concluded to defer decision till after dinner.

I decided dead wrong. I should have brought the matter out at once. While I had been in Jim's room the housekeeper had gone into mine to leave some towels and had seen the ring on my mantel. Miss Witherspoon missed it and ran to the bathroom. Not finding her property, she made her loss known to the hostess. The hostess communicated with the housekeeper, who said she had seen the ring on my mantel. Had I, on going down to dinner, made the facts known my story would have been believed. But, not saying a word about the matter, it all looked very singular to my friends. Nothing was said about Miss Witherspoon's loss, and at first there was no constraint at the board, but before the dinner was finished I noticed a considerable coolness toward me on the part of every one.

Knowing well the cause and beginning to realize the position I was in, I grew embarrassed. I saw that I had made a mistake all around and did not see any way to vindicate myself. I did not know that the ring had been seen in my room, but it was plain to me that my connection with it was in some form known. I had but one theory as to the disappearance of the property—that some one, probably a servant, had gone into my room and, seeing the ring there, had stolen it.

After dinner I took Jim aside and told him the whole story. He looked very serious. He said that he didn't doubt a word of what I had told him, but he didn't see how we were to convince the women of the family. "They don't take the same views of things that we do," he said. "They judge in accordance with their feelings. That's the reason we men don't let them into the jury box. The main trouble in this case is that all our servants have been with us a long while, and although we have left valets where they could have been easily stolen without detection, we have never missed anything. But I'll do the best I can for you."

You never know what different views different persons will take of a mystery in which you are implicated until you are the subject of it. The only person in that whole household who thoroughly believed my story was—who?

I'll tell you.

After talking with Jim I went out for a walk in order to leave him to tell my story to the others and to get quieted down. When I returned no one was about, but on going into the drawing room Miss Witherspoon advanced and, putting out her hand and fixing her honest eyes on mine, said:

"I have heard your explanation and have not the slightest doubt that every word of it is absolutely true."

By Jove! What do you suppose I did? I opened the sprinkler in my eyes.

Pretty soon I went up to Jim's room to tell him the good news. He listened to me, but without that enthusiasm I had expected. When I had finished he said:

"We must find the thief. That's the only way to exonerate you. I told you that women are prone to decide such questions in accordance with their feelings. I am not surprised at Miss Witherspoon's action, for both my wife and I have noticed a decided partiality on her part for you."

"Thank God for that!"

"My wife is more unprejudiced. I wish her to feel perfectly satisfied in the matter and shall take measures to discover the thief."

I left the next day under a cloud—at least with Mrs. Peabody. Six months from that time the thief had not been discovered. Miss Witherspoon and I were married, but Jim and his wife were not invited to the wedding. In another six months the thief turned up in a servant to whom they gave a confidence they denied me. They tried hard to wipe off the slate, but I have never had anything to do with them since.

WHEN THE STOMACH STOPS

Working Properly, Because There Is Wind In It, Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to Set It Going Again.

A Trial Package Free.
The doctors call it flatulency, but unprofessional folks know it as "wind on the stomach," and a most distressing state of things it is. It is a serious condition of this great motor organ. Always annoying and painful in the extreme, at times often leading to bad and fatal results. The stomach embarrassed and hampered with wind cannot take care of its food properly and indigestion follows, and this has a train too appalling to enumerate. The entire system is implicated—made an active or passive factor in this trouble and life soon becomes a questionable boon.

All this is explained in doctor books, how undigested food causes gases by fermentation and fermentation in which process some essential fluids are destroyed—burnt up—wasted by chemical action, followed by defective nutrition and the distribution through the alimentary tract of chemically wrong elements and as a consequence the stomach and entire system is starved. Plenty of food, you see, but spoilt in preparation and worse than worthless.

A deranged stomach is the epitome of evil; nothing too bad to emanate from it, but the gas it generates is probably its worst primary effect and the only way to do away with this is to remove the cause. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets go to the root of this trouble. They attack the gas-making foods and render them harmless. Flatulency or wind on the stomach simply cannot exist where these powerful and wonderworking little tablets are in evidence.

They were made for this very purpose to attack gas-making foods and convert them into proper nutriment. This is their province and office. A whole book could be written about them and then not all told that might be told with profit to sufferers from this painful disease, dyspepsia. It would mention the years of patient and expensive experiment in effort to arrive at this result—of failures innumerable and at last success. It would make mention of the different stomach correctives that enter into this tablet and make it faithfully represent all.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not alone intended for the sick, but well folks as well; for the person who craves hearty foods and wants to eat heartily and run no risk of bad effects, they act like a charm and make eating and digestion a delight and pleasure. They keep the stomach active and energetic and able and willing to do extra work without special labor or effort. Don't forget this. Well people are often neglected, but the Stuart Dyspepsia Tablets have them in mind.

A free trial package will be sent any one who wants to know just what they are, how they act and taste, before beginning treatment with them. After this go to the drug store for them; everywhere, here or at home, they are 50 cents a box and by getting them at home you will save time and postage. Your doctor will prescribe them; they say there are 40,000 doctors using them, but when you know what is the matter with yourself, why go to the expense of a prescription? For free trial package address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Michigan.

"My daughter," admonished the fond mother, "if that young man ever tries to kiss you slap his face." "I always do," replied the dutiful daughter.

"Vine is its own reward," quoted the Wise Guy. "Yes, but there are lots of people who don't seem to care about the reward," added the Simple Mug.

EXHIBITION TRAIN FROM ARKANSAS

Visits City and Exploits Products
From the Bear State—Carries Band of 20 Pieces.

The great train, "Arkansas on Wheels," which is now traveling over the United States exhibiting and advertising the natural resources and products of Arkansas, arrived in Newark Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock, coming from Columbus, where the train remained over night, and where a reception was tendered them by the Chamber of Commerce. Hundreds of Newark people were shown through the numerous cars and inspected the exhibits, which had the effect of impressing those who went through the train with the great possibilities of Arkansas.

Arkansas, which is fast taking rank with some of the older states in population, enjoys the unique distinction of being one of the most productive in agriculture and mineral output of any state in the Union. Having in mind the natural resources of the country representatives of different commercial organizations all over the state joined one general association, and acting on the idea of William B. Folsom, fitted out one of the largest and finest exposition trains ever represented by any state, with which they have been exhibiting all over the United States the natural resources and products of Arkansas, 65 out of the 75 counties being represented.

Mr. Folsom is a newspaper man, being the owner and editor of the Brinkley Argus, of Brinkley, Ark., and he has been boosting his state for more than twenty years. He is a public-spirited man eager to see Arkansas take her place among the great states of the nation.

The big train, which has been named "Arkansas on Wheels," consists of eleven cars. Four of these cars are exhibit cars and are filled with agricultural and mineral products of the state. There are also commissary and dining cars and five Pullmans.

There are 156 people in the party on the train, 26 of them being ladies, representing the sixty counties of the state and all engaged in boosting their counties.

A splendid band of twenty pieces, composed of young men of Wayne, Ark., accompanies the train. When the train reaches a city a parade is held, led by the band and a megaphone man, advising the natives that the train is ready for inspection. The train, which is under the management of W. B. Folsom, left Little Rock October 20, and since that time has visited Memphis, Tenn., Mammoth Cave, Ky., Louisville, Ky., Cincinnati, Pittsburg, Canton, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Columbus, and a number of the smaller cities.

While sixty of the counties of Arkansas have exhibits on the train this year it is estimated that not less than one hundred cities of the state will be represented next year, owing to the fact that fully as many wanted space on the train this year.

Upon the arrival of the long train here Wednesday morning the band came up on the public square and rendered a number of selections that were greatly appreciated by all who heard them. The band is a fine one and is certainly a great card for the exhibition.

An Advocate reporter visited the car and was met by the manager, Mr. Folsom, who introduced him to Mr. C. A. Berry, the genial press agent representing the exhibit. Mr. Berry escorted the reporter through the train explaining to him the nature of the exhibits represented by the various counties, and which included everything grown in this part of the country, and then some.

One of the interesting features in connection with the show was an exhibit of growing rice and the manner in which it is cultivated. It is estimated that an acre of Arkansas land will yield from 30 to 100 bushels of rice, and there are hundreds of rice growers in the state who are independently wealthy. Two years ago there was but one rice mill in the state, now there are over half a dozen.

Space precludes the possibility of speaking at length on what is raised in Arkansas, or what opportunities are open for the homeseekers, investor, manufacturer or any man seeking to enjoy life along the line of least resistance.

Besides the exhibits of the various cities of Arkansas, a number of high class operatic soloists are carried along for the entertainment of visitors, instrumental music being rendered on a $1,000 piano, made from Arkansas oak. There is also a reception room, in charge of the ladies on the trip; a booth for visiting newspaper men, in charge of a well known newspaper man, Mr. J. Frank Keeley, of the Arkansas Democrat.

The train remained at the Panhandle depot a little more than an hour when it pulled out for Pittsburg, leaving hundreds of Newark people with a good impression of Arkansas and her people.

"The Melancholy Days Have Come The Saddest of the Year"

In these words the poet expressed his impression of Autumn. Was he correct? Is this how you feel? We think not. The coming of Jack Frost, and falling leaves suggest rather invigorating breezes, opening chestnut burrs, nutting expeditions, refreshing night's rest and sleep, long evenings, cozy fireplaces, and inside comforts.

PARISH can not make the breezes more invigorating; the nutting expeditions more glorious or enjoyable, but PARISH can help mightily with that refreshing rest and sleep by supplying good beds, and exquisitely luxurious springs and mattresses.

PARISH provides the cozy fireplace by furnishing either coal or gas heaters, and PARISH furnishes everything that goes to make up inside comforts, and luxurious surroundings in your home.

The Milk-Wagon Habit

Madam, See What It Costs You

Mrs. Housewife—

Getting milk from the milkman is surely a habit, and millions of homes have outgrown it. There are hundreds of homes right around you who use nothing but Van Camp's.

Let us show what they gain, and how much you lose. This is a very important question.

Loss No. 1—Purity

Your milkman's milk isn't sterile. There are millions of germs in each drop. Sickness among children, in very large part, is caused by these germs in milk.

You know that. And you know the tendency toward pasteurized milk. That's the only real protection.

Van Camp's Milk is pasteurized. It is utterly sterile. There is not a single germ in a gallon.

Loss No. 2—Quality

Milkman's milk comes from all sorts of dairies, all sorts of cows. Van Camp's comes from model dairies and from Holstein cows.

We have dairies in seven states—each in the heart of a great dairy section. The cows are inspected—all milk is tested. Sanitation is a science in our plants. There is no finer milk in all the world than you get in each can of Van Camp's.

Loss No. 3—Richness

Milkman's milk separates quickly. The butter fat rises and the solids fall. Milk dipped from a can is never whole-milk. When that milk gets to the cooking it is rarely more than a half-milk.

Van Camp's is the whole-milk. The milk fresh from the cow is put into a copper vacuum. There, in moderate heat, we evaporate two-thirds of the water.

The milk as it comes to you is as thick as thick cream. It is 28 per cent solids, 8 per cent butter fat. It is so rich that folks always dilute it, even for coffee and cereals.

In cooking, this milk gives to milk-dishes an amazing richness and flavor. Not because of any addition, for we add nothing at all. This is simply the whole, rich milk. But whole, rich milk will surprise you—you who are used to milk wagon milk. A single milk dish made with Van Camp's will forever convert you to the use of this milk. Until then, your neighbors are serving milk dishes twice as good as yours—all because of whole-milk.

Loss No. 4—Convenience

You buy from the milkman from day to day. You always must guess at your needs. When you get too much it is wasted. When you get too little you must go without. Think of the dishes you want, and can't make, because the milk supply is exhausted.

You can buy Van Camp's a month's supply at a time. It is like a cow in the pantry. Have milk and cream, all you want, when you want it. No waste whatever, for the opened can keeps until you use it up.

Loss No. 5—Money

The strangest fact is that this premier milk—from high-bred cows, from model dairies—sterile, rich and pure—costs less than milkman's milk.

We save you the cost of the daily delivery. That costs more than the milk. By evaporating the water we save transportation. And we save you all the waste. In the average home the use of Van Camp's cuts milk bills right in two.

Because of these facts, we are now milking 30,000 cows daily to supply the armies of people who are using Van Camp's.

The 16-oz. can—a full pint of Van Camp's—costs 10 cents. The 6-oz. can costs 5 cents. That's with two-thirds the water evaporated. Your grocer gets it direct from our nearest dairy.

EXCELLENT BUSINESS OF ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Licking County Farmers' Mutual Fire and Lightning Insurance association, held last week, a report of the board of directors was made showing the Association to be in a substantial condition. A portion of the report follows: Amount of insurance in force Oct. 13, 1910.....$403,362.00 Insurance written during fiscal year .....114,125.00 Insurance cancelled during same period .....31,277.00 Insurance in force Oct. 12, 1911.....513,210.00

This amount covers 224 policies. Cash on hand Oct. 13, 1910.....$2 Receipts from all sources... 407.10 Paid out .....402.50 Balance Oct. 12, 1911.....5.42

Losses and expenses of management .....347.00 An assessment of 60 cents per thousand dollars was ordered levied by the board to meet expenses. The board ordered a levy of 40 cents per thousand to be used as an emergency fund, anticipating a heavier loss in the future.

The annual election of officers resulted in the following selection: President—E. C. Alspach, Vanatta. Secretary—O. B. Young, Newark. Treasurer—J. M. Lambert, Newark. Director—A. W. Horner, Newark.

The board of directors now consists of L. M. Shipley of Johnstown, D. D. Snider of Etina and A. W. Horner of Newark. This insurance association is purely a grange organization. There are at present 18 Grange organizations in Licking county and the farmer who is living within the Grange district, who does not affiliate with it, is not doing his duty to his calling, according to the opinion of the members of the association. By affiliating with a Grange organization, the farmer has access to the benefits of this insurance organization.

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the vision of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

This remedy is sold under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If your hair is losing color or coming out, start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur today, and see what a change it will make in a few days' time.

This preparation is offered to the public at 50 cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

Wants are worth reading tonight.

GRANVILLE

Granville, O., Oct. 25.—These are the happiest days for the school boys. The older ones enjoy themselves at this time of the year with football and devote all their spare time and recreation hours to it. The smaller boys take opportunity of every half hour to gather nuts. How the boys love to climb trees and shake them and hear the nuts fall to the ground. Each boy also wants the reputation of climbing the highest tree and that's where the danger comes in. Without these pleasures and sports that go along with their work at the school the boys would not enjoy life in its full meaning. All study and no play won't go with any boy.

Guy Evans, who was called here by the death of his mother last week, left Monday night for his home in Denver, Colo.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey of Columbus have been visiting friends and relatives in Granville during the past few days.

The following program was carried out at the last meeting of the Franklin Literary Society: Reading in Scotch dialect—Robert Morris; Biography, E. F. Linnell; Essay, P. B. Miller; Crescent, Cary Moore. Owing to the fact that the Leavitt Lecture was held on this evening the program was cut short in order to enable those who desired to do so to attend.

On Wednesday evening of next week a Haydn recital will be given in the Composer series in the Recital Hall, under the auspices of the Conservatory of Music. A symphony will be played in duet form and Mr. Priske will sing an air from "The Creation," also the air he was unable to sing in the last program.

After a pleasant visit with relatives and friends here during the past week, Miss Margaret Holcomb has returned to her home in Richland county.

A few days of bright sunshine will thoroughly dry the fallen leaves which lie thick upon the ground. Parents should note that their children indulging in bonfires are careful of fire spreading. With high winds a big blaze could scarcely be averted. The recent heavy rains have delayed the burning of leaves, and although they are not quite dry enough to burn fires were lighted all along Broadway Monday evening.

Mrs. Hannah Williamson, of Lima, Ohio, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. S. O. Richards near here for the past several weeks has returned home.

The Engwerson Choral Society has secured for its Christmas concert Mr. Charles Hargreaves, tenor who so delighted the music loving people of Granville and Newark two years ago by his exquisite work in the Messiah and in recital. Mr. Priske has consented to sing the bass solos, with which he is thoroughly familiar, having taken this part in many Messiah performances, both here and in England.

The annual initiation banquet of the Enterpeneer Literary Society was held at the last meeting of the society in Shepardson dining room, which was handsomely decorated for the occasion. Sixty-five members enjoyed the banquet. Each freshman was called upon to give an extempore speech on the subject she found on her menu card, and some of them were very clever.

WAKE UP WITH A "DARK BROWN TASTE"?

Get Rid of It! Run for OLIVE TABLETS

There isn't the slightest need to wake up any morning with a "brown mouth." Ugh! No need to describe it.

Dr. Edwards has made "brown mouth" a thing of the past in thousands of homes with his little Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Anyone who takes Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets the moment he suspects his liver and bowels, never has "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a pimply face, constipation or any other form of bowel or liver disorder.

Take one just the moment you suspect you are constipated or that your liver is out of order.

Thousands take one at bedtime every night just to keep the bowels regular, the liver in order, the mouth clean and the breath pure and sweet.

Olive Tablets are made of pure vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

Dr. Edwards spent 17 years in practice and in laboratory experiments before he perfected Olive Tablets.

Why don't you try them instead of the severe kind of laxatives that gripe and only effect temporary relief?

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

At all drug stores in neat pocket packages. At 10c and 25c.

Made by the Olive Tablet Company, Portsmouth, Ohio, or Columbus, Ohio. Dr. F. M. Edwards, President. (60)

DIEHL TRIAL

evidence given of the conversation or remarks of Diehl at the Smith home the night of the lynching. He said that Hull had said that he had seen Weldon Denny have hold of the rail, at the same time he saw Diehl, and yet Denny says he did not have hold of the rail.

"If Hull saw Denny and Diehl have hold of the rail at the same time, why is Denny at large, his indictment having been nolleed by the prosecutor? Is he not as guilty of murder as is this defendant?"

Mr. James also ridiculed the testimony of Parker Burge, who, he said, was in the employ of the state, one of his duties being to drive the prosecutor's automobile.

The attorney then took up the matter of Etherington's wounds and contended, that the testimony of four doctors was to the effect that the man had died from strangulation, and that even if Diehl had struck him with the hammer, these physicians had sworn that all of his injuries were not severe enough to have caused death, and that a verdict of murder could not then be found against Diehl.

Finally, Mr. Jones argued the good reputation borne by the defendant, as testified to by a number of witnesses, as showing that he was not likely to have taken part in the crime charged.

His closing was a pathetic appeal, and moved every hearer, as he solemnly said:

"How he will await your verdict. How many years he will live during the time you are deliberating upon the verdict which will doom him to a living death or set him free. The state wants you to take life of Walter Diehl and write upon the pages of Licking county, the death of Walter Diehl, and the never ending sorrow of that aged mother, and never more will the warm kiss of love and affection be imprinted upon his brow by a heartbroken wife."

Prosecutor Smythe began the closing argument at 9:55 o'clock and was at his best, as he addressed the jury impressing upon them the duty which the state imposed upon them, of doing judgment and justice which he said was the highest command given by Christ himself to the magistrates of this world.

"I know gentlemen that you cannot but have sympathy for Walter Diehl. It is terrible for you to contemplate the consequences to him of his act on that fatal night."

"But the wages of sin is death, and the deed of the defendant was a horrible one. The body of Carl Etherington lies mouldering in his grave, and it is there through the acts of Walter Diehl and others like him."

"I want to say to you that the state has made out a case of murder in the first degree and nothing else, and I would rather see you bring in a verdict of absolute acquittal than one of any lesser degree of crime."

The prosecutor argued the facts and the application of the law to them and said:

"The court has told you that any one who joins a mob is guilty of the acts committed by that mob. There is no doubt but that that night a murder was committed, and if Diehl was even present he is guilty of murder. How much more then is he guilty if we review his own acts?"

Mr. Smythe then went over the testimony as to Diehl's acts from the time he was seen battering with the sledges upon the doors of the jail, his remarks at the Smith home in Texas, and at the round house in the presence of Ray Burge, and finally his fleeing from justice to another state and taking refuge under an assumed name.

He closed by appealing to the jury to do its duty and to find him guilty of either the crime of murder in the first degree or to let him go free.

"The law of Ohio is humane. I do not want to seem to be anxious to see shed the blood of this defendant, and the law has made it possible for you to find the defendant guilty of the crime which the state believes it has proven, that is first degree murder, and yet recommend mercy, which will save the defendant's life."

"Spare his life if you want to, but for the love of Heaven, in regard to your duty, to your oaths to yourselves and to the people of this state either find him guilty of a crime, if he has committed one or set him free."

The argument of Prosecutor Smythe was one of the most vigorous and convincing that has ever been made to a jury in any of the cases that have been tried in connection with the lynching. His voice was well modulated, but carried distinctly to every corner of the large room. He has always been known as a forensic orator of marked ability, and this reputation was more than sustained in his effort of Wednesday morning.

Judge Mansfield adjourned Court until 1 o'clock after Mr. Smythe had concluded at 11:20. He began reading his charge at 1 o'clock, which was almost identical as that given by the same jurist in the Watha case.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

Promptly at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon Attorney W. H. Miller of the Attorney General's office, who has assisted the prosecution in the Diehl murder case, began his argument which opened the case for the commonwealth. He prefaced his argument properly by saying to the jury that the prosecution had, before any testimony had been taken, stated to them that this was a murder case, and not one of manslaughter in any sense. Mr. Miller said in part:

"The state must prove, before you are justified in finding a verdict of murder in the first degree, that Walter Diehl, with premeditation, and deliberate malice, did murder Carl Etherington. This must be proven by the state beyond a reasonable doubt. Has the state done this? Did Walter Diehl help to murder Carl Etherington, and if he did was it done deliberately and maliciously and with premeditation?"

"These are the questions which you must decide, and the burden rests upon you twelve men and not upon me."

Mr. Miller then began to sum up the testimony given by several witnesses to prove premeditation and deliberation on the part of Walter Diehl, and of what he was thinking when he started up town the evening of July 8, 1910. He called attention to the testimony of James Rinehart, who gave evidence that Diehl had wanted him to go up town with him, and that upon his refusal, Diehl, who had a hammer in his hand, said: "Well, I am going up, I would like to get a crack at him."

"What could Diehl have meant; what could he have been thinking of except murder in the first degree, when he made this remark?" asked Mr. Miller.

"Then again, let me look at Harry Murray's evidence. Diehl is now at the jail as Mayor Atherton was speaking. Diehl turns to Murray and says 'they ought to get the s— b— out and kill him.' What did Diehl mean? What could he have meant by this remark, made while the mayor was urging the crowd to desist in its attack, except to deliberate what he did do, commit murder?"

"What does Weldon Denny say when asked if he had seen Walter Diehl in the jail that night. He said: 'I saw Diehl striking a wedge with a sledge, endeavoring to break open the blind door.' Was Diehl not then premeditating an attack on the jail? You must answer that question, gentlemen, by your verdict."

"B. and O. officers Mercer and Andrews also saw Diehl attempting to break into the jail, and I want you gentlemen, under your oath, to ask yourself the question 'What was in Walter Diehl's mind?'"

Immediately upon the conclusion of Mr. Miller's argument which was a masterpiece of legal perception, and the marshaling of facts brought out in the evidence, and applying them to the circumstances in the case at bar, Mr. L. C. Russell began the opening argument for the defense.

Mr. Russell is a forceful speaker and commanded the closest attention of the jury during his entire time. He dwelt particularly upon the alleged contradiction of testimony about the fact that Diehl had hold of the rail, while the latter, who also saw defendant at the same time, had said Diehl did not have hold of the rail.

As to the question of premeditation, Mr. Russell said that it was a mob that night, without a leader, and that because it met with no resistance, it had gone to the length of getting Etherington out and hanging him. He said there was no doubt that not one of the persons in the mob had any idea that Etherington would be taken out, but that it was a demonstration of disapproval of Etherington, nothing more at first.

"No one but expected to be driven away, and the whole affair would have amounted to no more than a hanging in effigy, had there been the slightest resistance. It was a senseless, madman's mob, carried along by its own weight, without brains or organization."

Mr. Russell also made much of the fact, as he said that the state failed to show by any direct testimony that Diehl had struck Etherington over the head with a hammer. He said that there was a discrepancy in the testimony as to the hammer used, whether it was a new one or an old one, and not a witness had testified as to the identity of the man who used the hammer.

Mr. Russell concluded with an impassioned appeal to the jury to "ex-

WILL RECOMMEND SOUTHERLAND BILL

Washington, Oct. 25.—The outline of an employers' liability and workman's compensation bill, which the congressional commission will recommend for passage this winter, was made public today by Senator Sutherland, chairman of the commission. The following features are incorporated in the bill: Compulsory and direct payment by railroads engaged in interstate commerce to employees interested in the company.

Employers bear entire burden of payments without taxation of employees. For disabilities continuing for two weeks or less employers to furnish medical attention to an amount not exceeding $200. Payment of compensation to be made periodically and not in lump sums. Amount of all payments to be based on a percentage on the employees' wage. In case of death payments to be made to dependents.

HOW TO GET FAT.

Use Samose, Say Druggists W. A. Erman & Son, and Put on Good Flesh.

The almost universal interest in physical culture is the best evidence that can be offered as to the need of a simple and scientific method of making thin people fat, increasing strength and restoring health.

Athletics, when carried to an extreme, often result in straining the vital organs. How much better it would be for the average person to regain strength, health and flesh by using Samose. This flesh forming food is assimilated as soon as it enters the stomach; it helps the organs to assimilate the food and extract the flesh forming elements; it builds up the muscles and rounds out the limbs into shapely plumpness.

Samose has been so successful in making thin people fat and restoring the weak and run down to strength and health that W. A. Erman & Son, the popular druggists, sell it under their personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not benefit.

MILK DEALERS WIN THEIR CASE

Washington, Oct. 25.—Indiana and Ohio milk dealers engaged in interstate business won their case today against the Erie railroad when the Interstate Commerce Commission ordered the proceedings dismissed. The railroad was notified by the commission that it must establish for a period of two years, rates which shall not exceed those in effect Dec. 31, 1911.

The Erie railroad recently filed tariff with the company in January, which would have increased the present rates on cream and condensed milk from points in Ohio and Indiana to Pittsburgh, approximately 50 per cent. These rates were ordered suspended. The decision affects thousands in Ohio.

SLASHED THROAT

though the janitor says he heard faint shrieks.

Dr. Knabe's offices and apartment were on the first floor. She was regarded as a fresh air advocate as she always slept with the windows raised. The windows however were fully six feet above the street level.

They were closed when Miss McPherson entered the flat. The door was locked, it could have been unlocked from the inside without the key, so that the murderer could have walked out without any trouble.

Dr. Knabe's associates cannot understand why the windows were shut unless the murderer shut them.

She was 35 years old and attractive, but it is not known that she had a lover. She had a beautiful figure having devoted a great deal of time to physical training. She had been a director in the Young Women's Christian Association and was to have taken an examination for a similar position with a German society.

She was vigorous and able to make stronger resistance than most women. The body showed evidence of a hard struggle, but no other furniture was disarranged. There was no bloody knife or weapon that might have been used to cut her throat.

The suicide theory was scouted because Dr. Knabe visited friends Monday night who said that she was in a very happy frame of mind. She had laid her clothes neatly on a chair beside the bed. On another chair was a shirtwaist and other articles she intended to wear today.

Apparently she had disrobed for the night. Her head was within arm's length of two telephones, but she had never had a chance to ask for help.

Leading from the engine room adjoining the apartment of Haynes in the basement is a dumb waiter that connected with Dr. Knabe's offices. The police figured that Haynes or whoever the assailant was, may have crept through this shaft into the room without Dr. Knabe knowing of his presence until he was upon her, but that was later disproved.

Fannie Winston, Haynes' housekeeper and his daughter Eva Haynes who slept in the basement, were detained by the police but they had no evidence and were released. Hanes is an ex-elder in a Baptist church and a negro of good reputation. He denied any knowledge of the crime. People living above Dr. Knabe's offices say they heard no sounds of a struggle.

The police have been unable to find any blood stains anywhere in Dr. Knabe's apartment except in the bed and at the side of it. A careful examination was made of the bathroom, where the murderer may have washed his hands, but not a speck of blood was found there.

There were no blood marks on any of the windows or doors, and there is not a sign of blood on the dumb waiter shaft. The police had a man attempt to enter the apartment through the dumb waiter shaft. It was found that in doing so he made a noise that was heard throughout the building. The only knife found was an old and dull one, that apparently had not been used for a long time.

There were a number of surgical knives done up in a towel, but none of them had been disturbed or used. It would have been impossible for Dr. Knabe to have inflicted the wound that was found on her neck and to have made way with the instrument used.

Coroner Durham after working all day on the case said: "I am convinced that Dr. Knabe was the victim of a brutal murder. In the first place I cannot believe she committed suicide, because the weapon with which her head was severed almost from her body could not be found."

WET SPEAKER SCORED SUNDAY AT PORTSMOUTH

Meetings of Wets and Drys Are Being Held in Number of Counties Over the State.

Portsmouth, Oct. 25.—The cold weather did not affect the attendance at the local option meetings
last night. With thousands shivering in the big tent of the wets, Chas.
A. Windle replied to Billy Sunday's boozing sermon delivered at the tabernacle Monday evening. Windle sought to answer every argument of the evangelist, and branded the sermon as a gross misrepresentation of facts.

Lincoln McConnell, noted humorist, spoke to an immense crowd at the tabernacle in the interest of the dries.
The speaking campaign will be closed Wednesday night with Windle for the wets and Judge A. Z. Blair for the dries.

CAMPAIGN PUSHED VIGOROUSLY

Ironton, O., Oct. 25.—The wet and dry campaign now being waged here by the Business Men's Association on the one hand and the Local Option League on the other far surpasses in intensity the campaign held here three years ago. Both sides have flooded the city and county with literature. Speeches are being made nightly on the street corners and indoors. Workers for both sides are also touring the country in automobiles. The list of speakers includes Wayne B. Wheeler, Rev. P. A. Baker, Seaborn Wright and Mrs. Lulla Shepard, for the dries and Rev. Mr. Meeker, Homer Durand, C. A. Windle and Captain Morgan Smith for the wets. It is noted that Wayne B. Wheeler still makes the Newark lynching affair one of his chief arguments.

FIGHT IS VERY BITTER

Pomeroy, Oct. 25.—The local option fight in Meigs county is at fever heat with the dry element the more aggressive. Speeches are being made in every school district by the dries. Yesterday afternoon Rev. P.
A. Baker of the National Anti-Saloon League held a rousing meeting at Middleport and he spoke at Racine last night. The fight was precipitated by the wets, who are holding meetings in the larger towns along the river. The fight is more bitter than the one three years ago. The election will be held Saturday.

EACH CLAIMS VICTORY

Athens, Oct. 25.—Both wets and dries are claiming victory by varying majorities in the local option election, which will be held in Athens county next Saturday. The county went dry by 1421 three years ago.
The present campaign has been very vigorous on both sides. If the county goes dry there will be but two wet townships, York, with the city of Nelsonville, and Trimble, with the villages of Gloucester, Trimble and Jacksonville, as the rest of the county is dry under the Beal law.

ADVOCATE CARRIERS BANQUETTED

The Advocate entertained its carrier
boys at a 7 o'clock dinner Tuesday evening at the Elks' club room. The young men met at the Advocate office
and under charge of Fred J. "Uncle Joe" Cannon marched to the banquet hall where they were escorted into the reception and music room.

They were seated at a long table
glistening with its snowy white linen, glassware and silver. After all had been seated, Photograph of Charles
graph of the group, after which the following menu was served: Mr. Carter, Joseph Kuster, Jr., assisted by an efficient corps of waiters.
Cream of Oyster Soup
Olives Baked Chicken Pie
Midget Peas Creamed Tomatoes
Candied Sweet Potatoes
Cream Stew
Chocolate Ice Cream
Cake

Coffee MILK
Previous to and during the supper hour excellent music was rendered by Fred Abbott, cornet; Donald Kissane, violin; Lee Fisher, bass viol; Charles Smith, piano. The young men and members of the high school orchestra
and their playing was greatly appreciated.

After the excellent menu had been enjoyed and praised by all participating, Mr. C. H. Spencer, business manager of the Advocate, addressed the boys, paying them many compliments
for their excellent work in delivering the paper to Advocate subscribers. He cited a number of instances where former carriers had attained success in life, many of them occupying important positions in the business world or in the profession or avocations which they had chosen. He closed by calling upon the boys' curator, "Uncle Joe" Cannon.

Mr. Cannon has charge of the circulation department of the Advocate,
and looks after the routing mail daily, supervising the routes, etc. He gave the boys from his department a heartfelt talk, telling them how thousands of readers were depending on them daily, how anxiously they were awaited each evening and how their faithfulness and efficiency were appreciated. Much depends on the carrier, he said, for the paper must reach the subscriber no matter what the weather; conditions might be. Mr. Cannon praised the work of the boys and closed by expressing the wish that they would all be as successful in business in the future as they are in this, their first venture in the business world.

City Editor H. D. Pade, also spoke a few words of encouragement for the young men and complimented them for the excellent service which they are rendering the Advocate.

After a rising vote of thanks had been tendered the Elks for the use of their club, the boys bid one another good night and left for their various homes. The following carrier boys were present: Bernard, Goebel, Frederick Connell, Andrew Callahan, Robert Africa, Jos. Williams, Fred Jones, Geo.
Morrison, Fred Abbott, Carl Hind,
Harry Loughman, James Donnelly,
Harold Vogle, Willard Wilson, William
Kane, Harold Markham, Ivan Patterson,
Joseph Campbell, John Williams, Harvey Smart, Carl Babaker, Earl Martin, George Golaik, Paul Phillips, John De Frieze, Arthur La Bell, Arthur St-
Robert Jones, Raymond Davis, Wm.
Driscoll, Dwight Winters, Francis W.
Leah, Howard Holzherty, Wilbur Mc-Arthur of Hanover.

SHE SUFFERED FIVE YEARS

Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Erie, Pa.—"I suffered for five years from female troubles and at last was almost helpless. I went to three doctors and they did
me no good, so my sister advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I had taken only two bottles I could see a big change, so I took six bottles and I am now strong and well
again. I don't know how to express my thanks for the good it has done me and I hope all suffering women will give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It was worth its weight in gold."—Mrs. J. P. ENGLISH, R. F. D. No. 7, Erie, Pa.

tion, ulceration, displacements, fibroid
tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

SHOT FROM GUN SHATTERED WINDOW OF BAKER HOME

Samuel Shackelford, of McKinley avenue, west of the Granville hill, is held at the city prison awaiting trial to explain how it happened that he discharged a gun, the shot from which shattered a window in the home of James Baker, who lives on Granville street, Tuesday.

There has been bad blood between the Baker-Shackelford families for several years and their troubles have frequently been aired in the mayor's
and justices' courts of the city.

More than a year ago the Bakers
and Shackelfords mixed it up and one of the paternal household heads was badly beaten. There have been other clashes since that time.
Shackelford told the mayor that he
